MRS. VANDERBILT SAILS YACHT TO VICTORY IN RACE

Atlantic Club Members Give Society Matron Rousing Greeting as She Holds Rainbow's Wheel at the Finish Line.

SEA GATE, June 12.—With Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt at the wheel the sloop Rainbow today swept over the finish line a victor in the fortieth annual regatta of the Atlantic Yacht Club.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was aided in sailing the seventy-footer by the peerless Charley Barr. It was his jockeying at the start and at Scotland Light-ship that really won the race from the Yankee. The Neola was an also ran, with an allowance.

The Rainbow finished at 4:25:40, and the Yankee at 4:35:40. The Rainbow rounded Scotland Light at 2:33:16 and the Yankee at 2:43:30. In the schooner class the Corona finished at 4:33, winning from the Elmina. In class P the Crescent beat the Jig-saw.

Early there were scenes of busy activity aboard the fleet off the club-house at Sea Gate. Commodore Held was on hand early and his big white flagging, the Rheclair, had up steam ready to accompany the races over the course. Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt's White Star was also at the anchorage off the club-house, having come down the harbor early with the owner, who is to sail his big seventy-footer Rainbow in his first big of the season today.

The tug Catherine Moran was used for the judges' and press boat and left the Battery for the club-house at 8:20 o'clock, having on board the regatta committee, consisting of Theodore D. Wells, Frederick Vilmar and Orient C. Pinckney.

Secretary E. H. M. Roehr sailed the Jig-saw in the race. Treasurer Barton S. Weeks and former Commodore R. P. Doremus were on the Rheclair. It was the first important race of the season for the big yachts and great interest was manifested.

The start of the seventy-footers was well nigh perfect, and there was a lot of pretty jockeying in which Capt. Charles Barr, on the Rainbow, had the best of it. Commodore Vanderbilt held the watch, and Mrs. Vanderbilt was a very interested observer, having a vantage point near the companion way at the cabin. Barr held the Yankee, with Mr. Maxwell at the wheel, down to leeward until the gun, and then quickly came about with his balloon jib up, the Rainbow crossing the line about 30 seconds before the Yankee, who had also set her balloon.

After crossing, however, the Yankee, well up to Windward, held the Rainbow down under her lee, so that Barr had to go around the stern of the steam yacht North Star that had anchored off the club-house. Here the Rainbow struck a cross wind and the Yankee came down and came the balloon. Straightened away the two boats got a stiff breeze from the southwest and stood off with sheets close hauled for the southwest until the Neola being close behind.

In the schooner race the Corona crossed the line at 11:20 o'clock under all her lower topsails, the Elmina being about two minutes behind. Both went over on the starboard tack, but came about and stood on toward the club-house. Here the wind off shore died down and the yachts stood well in toward Gravesend Bay. Before the Corona could get about and out into the harbor the Elmina had gained three minutes.

INSURANCE WORK JUST BEGINNING, JEROME SAYS

Going on a Fishing Trip Now, but Will Get Busy Again in August.

District Attorney Jerome assured an interviewer today that the indictments found against former Vice-Presidents Grassius and Gillette, of the Mutual Life, yesterday were merely preliminary. They were the result of inquiry into only one branch of the business of the Mutual. Other branches will be taken up when the Special Grand Jury is re-convened on Aug. 1, when the District Attorney will have concluded his vacation.

"I shall open," said Mr. Jerome, "proceed seriously with the New York Life, the Equitable and other companies. But such investigations as we have been conducting in the Mutual are a matter of months necessarily."

Mr. Jerome was asked if there was any significance in the absence of any mention of R. A. McCutcheon, former President of the Mutual Life, in the presentment handed up by the Grand Jury yesterday. He replied, noncommittally, that the investigation had gone into but one branch of the Mutual Life.

Mr. Jerome starts on a fishing trip on Thursday. Evidently he knows a good place to fish in, for he keeps the location of it a dark secret. About July 1 he will repair to his country home at Lakeville, Conn., for a short visit, and will then take a trip through the South, returning in time to take charge of the August special grand jury.

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, June 12.—Whimsical won the Standard Stakes at Gravesend this afternoon, turning the tables on Ormondale, in spite of the fact that Ormondale was nine pounds better off in the weights than when he beat Whimsical a few days ago. On that occasion Whimsical was very badly ridden by Notter, and Ormondale won in very fast time.

The smart people believed that the nine pounds off Ormondale would offset the bad ride on Whimsical and they plunged on Ormondale to win the stake. Cairngorm had backing enough to keep his price steady.

In the race Ormondale at once went to the front, but before a quarter had been run Whimsical was alongside and the pair raced head and head a couple of lengths before Cairngorm. They ran this way to the stretch, where Ormondale was beaten. Jones then went to work on Cairngorm. The Page horse closed gamely, but the mare was game also, and she stalled off the charge and won by a neck. Ormondale hung on gamely and Cairngorm only beat him a length.

MRS. COREY, WIFE OF STEEL MAGNATE, ASKS DIVORCE

Attended by Her Husband's Mother and Sister, She Begins Suit in Nevada, Charging Desertion.

RENO, Nev., June 12.—Mrs. William Ellis Corey, wife of the President of the United States Steel Corporation, filed a petition today in the Second District Court of Nevada at this place for an absolute decree of divorce.

The petition of Mrs. Corey is brief, reciting that she was married to Corey on Dec. 15, 1883, and that he abandoned her about May 1, 1895.

She asks for a decree upon the ground of desertion, and also requests that the custody of their minor son be given out. The petitioner has obtained three attorneys of Reno to prosecute her case.

Corey will be represented by Pittsburgh and Nevada counsel, Sardis Summerfield, representing Corey, stated today that he did not know whether Corey would oppose the petition or not.

It is currently stated that negotiations are in progress, which will result in Corey consenting to the divorce and settling upon his wife an independent fortune.

The attorneys declined to discuss this phase of the matter.

Mrs. Corey is attended with in Reno by Corey's mother and sister. She declines to see newspaper men and pays no social visits.

Met Mabelle Gilman. The first public intimation of the discord in the home of the Coreys came out early last December, when it was announced at Pittsburgh that the couple had parted; that Mrs. Corey had gone with her son, Allen W. Corey, to the West, where she would establish a residence and sue for divorce, and that before her departure she had received a settlement of $100,000 and her son a settlement of $30,000.

Then it developed that for four years Pittsburgh clubmen and society people had been talking of a brewing tempest in the Corey household. The storm center was Mabelle Gilman, the actress, who was then starring in "The Mocking Bird." Corey, it was claimed, had become infatuated with the pretty little California woman.

BATTING ORDER.

Cleveland. Flick, rf. Bay, cf. Barbeau, ss. Lajoie, 2b. Rossman, 1b. Jackson, lf. Bradley, 3b. Bemis, c. Joss, p. Umpires—Hurst and O'Connor.

(Special to The Evening World.) DUNHAM AVENUE PARK, CLEVELAND, O., June 12.—Two teams crippled in the same spot, lined for battle today. Kid Elberfeld, of the Highlanders, has gone home to recover from the injuries he received when Stone spiked him in St. Louis several days ago, and Terry Turner, who twisted his ankle in yesterday's game, was not in uniform today.

Griff chuckled as he was reminded of a prediction he made in the South this spring. One day when asked where the Highlanders would finish, he jokingly said: "In seventh place, the notch ahead of Cleveland."

"We're not notch ahead, all right," he said today, "and I'm glad the rest of it hasn't come true so far."

"Lajoie, undismayed by Joss's bumping at the hands of the Nationals, sent him in again today, with Clarke as backstop, while Griff picked the Naps' old-time terror, Jack Chesbro, aided by Kleinow."

Tim Hurst made his first appearance in Cleveland as an arbitrator since the post-season series between Cleveland and Cincinnati four years ago.

First Inning. Joss did fast work in covering the bag for Rossman's assist on Keeler's mean bouncer. Brad whipped out Conroy. Chase singled to left. Jackson got Laporte's fly. NO RUNS.

Flick walked on four pitched balls. Bay sacrificed. Williams to Chase. Chesbro got only one batter over the plate for Midget Barbeau. Lajoie scratched an infield hit, filling the bases. Rossman out, Williams to Chase. Flick scored. Chesbro fielded Jackson's smash. ONE RUN.

Second Inning. Williams got a small, mysterious error from the Naps. Delahanty received a suit case from the "Boo Gang." He gave Barbeau an assist. Hoffman fanned. NO RUNS.

Chesbro hit Bradley on the wing. Bemis's single hit Brad out. He scored on Joss's hit to left. On Flick's hit Joss was out at second. Chase to Conroy, but Bemis went to third. Flick stole second. Bay's single to left filled the bases. Williams to Chase. Griffith walked. Chesbro and sent in the Indian pitcher, Leroy. Barbeau stole second. Leroy made a fine stop and throw of Larry's hot smash. Rossman fanned. THREE RUNS.

Third Inning. Bradley and Rossman squeezed Kleinow. Leroy popped to Brad. Keeler fanned. NO RUNS.

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., June 12.—With the arrival here of an army of amateur ball players in uniform and floods of people pouring into the park for two hours after the parade through the city streets merrymaking ran rampant this afternoon. Fast on the heels of the amateurs came a fleet of automobiles bearing the Giants, the Cincinnati players and the dignitaries of the National League.

It was 2 o'clock when the last machine had passed through the gates and the players were as hungry as wolves.

Fred Knowles, however, had overcome this difficulty, and a huge luncheon was spread on the veranda of the clubhouse, and while the crowd looked on, baseball players, chauffeurs and club owners sat down to eat as the guests of Harry Stevens. In the mean time the younger baseball generation, with empty stomachs and parched tongues, were looking for something to eat. The little fellows ran races around the bases, did broad jumps on the flat, had a few small scraps and looked for more to finally assuage their thirst.

Youngsters Held Carnival.

For roughhouse tactics, Harry Tut-till rolled out the Giants' push ball and got the lads busy, and for an hour the early spectators laughed themselves sick. The little fellows pushed the huge ball to and fro across the field, trampling on each other and ripping up fresh-washed uniforms, until the whole gang was forced to quit through exhaustion.

Then they formed a cordon around the field and patiently waited the arrival of the companion Giants.

It was a beautiful sight that greeted the officials as they walked through the gates. The Polo Grounds were filled with a gayly colored flag and bunting. Every national flag floated in the breeze. Red, white and blue bunting flashed from every supporting pillar in the grand stand and from the clubhouse, over the pennant poles, and to the further fence stretched a rope which sagged under the weight of a hundred code signal flags.

Long before the Catholic Protective Band had finished its concert in front of the grand stand the booming of explosives signaled that the day's celebration had begun.

WEBSTERS WON PRIZE.

Taking advantage of the wait for the champions, the Webster Ball Club youngsters ranging in years from twelve to sixteen, were brought before the grand stand and declared the winners of the contest for the ball club which made the best appearance in passing the City Hall. A beautiful silk banner was presented to the Webster Club by the judges, while the other clubs looked on in envy.

Before the Websters had returned to their place in the field their chests and expanded on an average of six inches to the man.

Another long wait then followed, while the crowd was kept entertained by a display of fireworks.

When the crowd had grown impatient, and began asking questions, Max Kramer, the grand marshal, appeared in front of the grand stand and announced that the whole proceedings were being held up awaiting the arrival of Mayor McClellan. This being tried to urge his Honor on by playing "Tappanway," but still there was no moving thing, and another long wait followed. It was getting time for the game to begin and the crowd was showing strong signs of impatience.

At 4:45 patience was awarded and from a gate in the third and 3d the park the Cincinnati Club appeared in automobiles, behind them came the Giants, and a parade around the field began. A roar of applause came from the stands and in a flash every spectator was on his feet.

Cheered for "Big Three." Yell after yell was hurled at the players, and as a huge machine rolled by bearing McGraw, Mathewson and McLean, the crowd roared and shook the roof of the grand stand. Matthewson was the real hero of the day. Every ten minutes he was forced to tip his cap.

The parade being over, the two clubs formed a line in centerfield and led by the Catholic Protective Band, marched

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., June 12.—After all the fireworks, speeches, hurrahs and the rest of the world's championship pennant raising had been cleared away and the smoke of enthusiasm had been dissipated the Giants and the Reds began scheduled business today.

The budding baseballists who surrounded the field shifted their wistful gaze from the big silk flag and peeled their eyes for points from the performance of the "real articles" and white and gray on the diamond.

First Inning. Huggins ripped a long single into left. Seymour got away with a safe one to the infield and Huggins went to second. Kelly slapped a single into right, scoring Huggins. Seymour going to third. Barry dropped a slow one to Witte and was thrown out at first. Devlin pounced on O'Dwell's bouncer and killed Seymour. McGraw also got a base on balls. McGraw sent out stealing second. Merkle fled to Seymour. NO RUNS.

Bowerman got first over the "big four route." Outfielder was forced second by Witte's hit to Weimer. Bresnahan soaked a hot one to Seymour and looked disgusted as "git" nailed it. Browne's grounder to Cor-
